Welcome. You are holding in your hands the 1st Edition of the definitive guide to mixing perfect drinks inspired by Prince. The LoveSexy Cocktail Guide offers drinks inspired by beloved Prince songs and serves as an official manual for his fans, "fams," true funk soldiers, bartenders and mixologists. This cocktail book is a basic tool to prepare a Prince song inspired drink to "Get Yo Groove On" while listening to your favorite Prince song or drink inspired song. This book is urgently needed as a source on those days when you need a Prince "pick me up."

I've collected the best-known and best-loved Prince songs that could be inspired by drink recipes, tested and standardized by me, and presented in alphabetical order, with recipes clear and easy-to-follow that, at last, anyone could be an expert at Prince cocktail hour.

With all respect to Prince, this book is to honor him through his fans, "fams," true funk soldiers, and purple party people that drink spirits or like having cocktails every now and then.

The LoveSexy Cocktail Guide is not stuffy or complicated, and contains recipes for spirits, mixers, and ingredients that an alcoholic, I mean drunk... no sorry...I mean any person who drinks spirits and cocktails might already have on hand.

These drinks are meant to celebrate Prince through inspired song, good times, and good friends who also love Prince and his music. You will make memorable drinks for your Prince inspired parties and a perfect excuse to put on his music and get lost in “spirits,” song, and dance.

Okay, as Prince once said,

“Shut up already, damn!”

Now, turn the page and let’s get started!!!

Beautiful Strange is the eleventh track on Prince's remix album Rave In2 The Joy Fantastic released April 30, 2001 and the companion album to Prince's 23rd album Rave Un2 The Joy Fantastic released November 9, 1999. The song was the only track on the album not to have been included on Rave Un2 The Joy Fantastic, and was first available as a video of a studio recording ending the Beautiful Strange home video released August 24, 1999 with a short segment of the recording session included as a prologue to the home video.

Darling Nikki is the fifth track on Prince's sixth album Purple Rain (Prince and the New Power Generation) released June 25, 1984. Notes from Prince's Dreams notebook that was on display at the "My Name Is Prince" exhibit in the O2 in London revealed that Prince considered naming Vanity's character in the film Nicarhura Ann, Nikki for short (ultimately changed to Apollonia). Tipper Gore (wife of Al Gore), having overheard her eleven-year-old daughter listening to the track, was inspired to found the Parents Music Resource Center that advocated the mandatory use of the warning label "Parental Advisory: Explicit Lyrics" on record covers "thought" to contain language or lyrical content unsuitable for minors. The recording industry voluntarily complied with the Center's request.

Housequake is the third track on the first disc of Prince's ninth album Sign O' The Times released March 31, 1987, and was the b-side for the album's third single U Got The Look released July 14, 1987. The track was initially placed as the second track on the album Camille and was planned as the b-side of the single Shockadelica (both credited to Camille). It was then included as the third track on the first disc on the triple-album Crystal Ball, which was pared down to become Sign O' The Times. Housequake (7 Minutes MoQuake) contains a sample from the song Crazay by Jesse Johnson featuring Sly Stone from the album Shockadelica (1986), after which Prince's song Shockadelica was named.

Shockadelica is the tenth track on disc three: The B-Sides of Prince's compilation album The Hits / The B-Sides released September 14, 1993, and was initially the b-side of If I Was Your Girlfriend released May 6, 1987 the second single from Prince's ninth album Sign O' The Times. Prince wrote the track after hearing that Jesse Johnson's forthcoming album was titled Shockadelica but had no title track. Prince felt that every album with a great title should contain a title track. Prince sent the finished song to Jesse Johnson, and Minneapolis' radio station KMOJ where the song premiered a few weeks before Jesse Johnson's album was released.
