Stone Heads

Rocky rocky faces,
Stony stony beds.
Easter Island has no daisies,
Only stony Stone Heads!

The background of the page is a stylized landscape illustration. In the foreground, two dark grey, jagged tree stumps stand on a patch of green and brown grass. The ground is uneven with patches of orange-brown soil. In the middle ground, there are rolling green hills. On the left side, a bright sun is shining, creating a lens flare effect. The sky is filled with horizontal bands of light blue and white, suggesting a clear or slightly hazy day.

The island people of old cut them down. Then, hungry (Polynesian) rats came and ate all the palm seeds. Without the seeds, not a single palm tree grew on the land.

Where have all the trees gone?
